Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue of JoF entitled “Dimensions of Tropical Fungal Diversity” will explore integrative approaches to fungal diversity in the tropics, focusing on the intersection of both historical and current patterns and processes that generate, maintain, and change this biodiversity at all organization levels: species level, community/population levels, and molecular level (small and large-scale, and especially involving (Meta)Omics Sciences, such as Metagenomics, Pan-Genomics), using traditional and, especially, innovative analytical methods, such as artificial intelligence and complex networks.
