Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Sleep has a fundamental role in achieving a healthy life and increasing attention has been paid to the beneficial role of sleep not only as a cognitive function and on the associated neuropathology processes, but also on entire body functioning.

This Special Issue will focus on recognizing the detrimental effects of sleep disorders on brain and body health and on the need of personalized approaches for detecting and treating sleep disorders in clinical settings, in particular in neurology, psychiatry, and geriatrics.

We invite original manuscripts or brief communications with recent and novel data, narrative reviews and systematic reviews with meta-analysis, opinion and general consensus or guidelines for better diagnosing and treating sleep disorders.
