Message from the Guest Editors

Cancer is a complex disease that involves multifaceted mechanisms at transcriptional, translational. biochemical levels. In addition, several molecules become important players in cancer progression and provide conducive environment for protein-protein interactions, metabolite cross-talk, and cell signaling. Studying such molecules may offer discovery of biomarkers, targetable clues for potentially repurposing drugs, as well as insights for developing predictive models of prognosis and improving cancer-free survival in patients. Systems biology has undoubtedly emerged as an integrative tool to achieve such advances. The Journal of Personalized Medicine is now opening a Special Issue that is fully devoted to ideas and research that build a strong foundation of Systems Biology in cancer research, with a call for papers involving basic, translational, and clinical research on this topic.

Journal of Personalized Medicine (JPM; ISSN 2075-4426) is an international, open access journal aimed at bringing all aspects of personalized medicine to one platform. JPM publishes cutting edge, innovative preclinical and translational scientific research and technologies related to personalized medicine (e.g., precision medicine, pharmacogenomics/proteomics, systems biology, 'omics association analysis). JPM is covered in Scopus, the Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE), PubMed, PMC, Embase, and other databases.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Medicine, General and Internal) / CiteScore - Q2 (Medicine (miscellaneous))
