Message from the Guest Editors

This issue welcomes studies on financial development viz. economic activities and the potential of financial development to enhance economic growth. The issue aims to attract papers that examine the role of financial development at macro or micro levels. Studies can consider the conventional or contemporary measures of financial development, can be country-specific or region-based, can examine the direct or indirect contributions of financial development, and can strive towards proposing sound strategies to make financial system growth-enhancing. In this regard, papers submitted should maintain a good balance between the appreciation of relevant existing literature, the appropriateness of methodology and analysis leading to result-based policy implications, and the efforts to make some novel contributions in the field of study.
