Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

It is my pleasure to invite you to submit papers for the upcoming Special Issue on “Financial Markets, Financial Volatility and Beyond”. Topics include but are not limited to empirical and theoretical asset pricing, financial markets, climate finance, financial modelling, volatility forecasting, fund management, risk measurements and instruments. Novel research on computational aspects in finance is also encouraged—for instance, heuristic techniques for financial market modelling, higher dimensional computation, big data and high frequency trading, etc.

Contributions focusing on interdisciplinary research are also welcome, for instance, approaches and methods explaining key elements of stylized facts of financial markets, market microstructure, financial contagion, behavioural finance, etc. Submissions from practitioners and regulators are also welcome.
