Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

The COVID-19 pandemic has created large scale disruptions in product markets and supply chains. Production, distribution, and consumption have all been affected due to lockdowns, transportation restrictions, and other measures to prevent the spread of the pandemic. The need to understand the dynamics of product markets and supply chains has become evident with these developments.

This call for papers offers the opportunity for researchers to examine product markets and supply chains from all aspects that relate to supply chain risk management, product market structure, supply chain disruption risk, transmission of supply chain shocks, product networks, supply chain resilience, supply chain diversification, disaster management and other relevant issues that advance the knowledge on the importance of supply chains and product markets for the economy.

We invite investigators to contribute original research articles in areas that encompass product markets and supply chains. All submissions must contain original unpublished work not being considered for publication elsewhere.
