Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue focuses on the urban and rural real estate development perspectives in terms of social, economic, and environmental impact. The multidimensionality of real estate creates an opportunity to present interdisciplinary research, as the area of real estate market research is a multifaceted platform for many scientific disciplines. We encourage the authors to submit manuscripts on theoretical and practical solutions to spatial conflicts, taking into account the specificity of real estate. The previously mentioned topics are recommended, but the Special Issue is not limited to them. We believe the results of studies on the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on property prices and land use, as well as gender discrimination and inequality in the acquisition of property rights could be expected.
