Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

In this Special Issue, we focus on research that highlights current trends in ecolinguistics (Finke 2018; Lechevrel 2009; Huang 2016). We welcome contributions from a broad range of ecolinguistic topics, that focus, for example, on the following topics:

Language and the non-human world;
Language and natural connections (Alexander 2008);
Language and environmental sustainability (Alexander 2002; Caimotto 2020);
Environmental discourse in Media (Döring, Penz, and Trampe 2008; Xue and Xu 2021; Goatly 2002);
Eco-criticism;
Eco-politics;
Eco-literature;
(Eco)- linguistic anthropology;
Ecological education (Cachelin; Norvell; and Darling 2010);
The ecology of language (Finke 2014);
The need for new (eco)-terms/terminology;
Deep ecology (Naess 1975);
Positive (Eco)- discourse analysis (Stibbe 2017).

The purposes of this Special Issue are to contribute to the ongoing elaboration of ecolinguistic research in these areas, to outline methodological approaches for ecolinguistic research, to carry forward the themes of past Ecolinguistic research, and develop new and inspiring perspectives for future projects.
