Message from the Guest Editors

The goal of this Special Issue is to collect state-of-the-art articles on the intonational patterns of different types of bilinguals (e.g., second language learners; heritage speakers; simultaneous bilinguals). The focus will be on the perception and/or production of sentence-level patterns, such as the marking of information structure, the realization of sentence types or the phonetic realization of intonational events (pitch accents or boundary tones). We particularly encourage papers on understudied language pairings.
