Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues, Traditionally, treatments for conditions such as asthma, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), pulmonary fibrosis, and pulmonary embolism have followed a one-size-fits-all approach. However, the heterogeneity observed in disease progression, response to treatment, and patient outcomes has necessitated a more nuanced approach. With the advent of high-throughput technologies, advanced imaging, and bioinformatics, we are now equipped to analyze vast amounts of data at an unprecedented scale, paving the way for more precise and effective interventions in respiratory medicine. This Special Issue on “Personalized Medicine for Patients with Respiratory Diseases” aims to explore the latest developments and innovations in this burgeoning field. Our objective is to provide a comprehensive overview of how personalized medicine is reshaping the landscape of respiratory healthcare. This Special Issue will feature cutting-edge research that showcases the application of personalized medicine to respiratory diseases.

We look forward to receiving your contributions and advancing the field together.
