Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

Interplay of light with solid and liquid media in micro-/nanoscale is a multidisciplinary research and is making rapid progress in different research fields. This special issue follows up the 9th International Multidisciplinary Conference on Optofluidics (IMCO 2019, <http://imco2019.org>, 14-17 June 2019), and aims to publish short communications, full articles and topical reviews to update the multidisciplinary research frontiers of micro/nano-optics, nanophotonics, microfluidics and their devices/systems and applications. Other latest research results in the related fields such as coupled optofluidic phenomena, materials, fabrication, designs, modeling are also welcomed.
