Message from the Guest Editors

The goal of this Special Issue is to compile the most recent findings from pioneering studies in the vast scientific field of herbal products, offering a forum for presenting novel insights and health consequences related to herb–drug interactions. The scope includes but is not limited to discussions of in vivo and in vitro bioactivities, toxicity, bioavailability, drug metabolism, and gastrointestinal absorption. We hope that the information presented in this Special Issue will be of significant interest to the broad scientific research community and will increase and expand knowledge about herb–drug interaction in human health. This Special Issue will feature the most recent developments in herb–drug interactions as well as pharmacokinetic and pharmacodynamic aspects of promising natural products, and all researchers interested in this area are cordially encouraged to submit original research papers or reviews.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.
