Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

Natural products have played a significant role in human health and wellbeing for centuries. There remains a vast unexplored biodiversity with many new and significant discoveries being made each year. The bioprospecting of new natural organic compounds has led to the identification of useful biochemicals that are used as medicines and foods, and in veterinary medicine, agriculture, cosmetics and environment.

This Special Issue will consider research and review articles that present new natural compounds from a diverse range of biological sources including plants, bacteria, fungi and animals. Works should give the structures of the new compounds, and could include their synthesis if relevant as well as their in vitro and in vivo biological activities.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges \(APC\) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE \(Web of Science\), PubMed, MEDLINE, PMC, Reaxys, CaPlus / SciFinder, MarinLit, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Chemistry, Multidisciplinary) / CiteScore - Q1 (Chemistry (miscellaneous))
