Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue "Health-Promoting Compounds in Milk and Dairy Products" aims to investigate not only the analytical methods for assessing the bioactive compounds in various dairy products, but also to update the information about the nutritional evaluation of milk-based food products. Another aim of this Special Issue is to collect recent studies focused on the improvement of the nutritional value of milk and dairy products due to the breeding and/or feeding conditions, and the role of the technological processes in keeping or enhancing the bioactive compounds in milk-based food products. Contributions on the effects of the bioactive compounds in milk and dairy products in the human diet are also welcome, as are manuscripts addressing the assessment of these functional compounds in promoting health.

You are welcome to visit the website, submit abstract, and paper. Any questions, please feel free to contact the managing editor Larry Li (larry.li@mdpi.com). We look forward to receiving your contribution.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

As the premier open access journal dedicated to experimental organic chemistry, and now in its 25th year of publication, the papers published in Molecules span from classical synthetic methodology to natural product isolation and characterization, as well as physicochemical studies and the applications of these molecules as pharmaceuticals, catalysts and novel materials. Pushing the boundaries of the discipline, we invite papers on multidisciplinary topics bridging biochemistry, biophysics and materials science, as well as timely reviews and topical issues on cutting edge fields in all these areas.
