Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The 10th ECNP International Conference has established itself as one of the major events on Nanostructured Polymers and Nanocomposites for the European polymer science community. It continues the well-established tradition of international conferences, started with the European Network of Excellence NANOFUN-POLY, bringing together key researcher in an open forum where scientific discussions and dissemination of cutting-edge science and technology is ensured. The conference covers all aspects of polymer science, from fundamentals to applications, e.g., the synthesis of novel polymer architectures, polymer physics, processing, nanotechnologies, biomedicine, energy, etc.
