Message from the Collection Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Present in all fields of science, the CNRS ranks among the world's leading research organizations for its excellent results in research and innovation. The CNRS is thus at the forefront of international rankings: second most visible research institution on the web, fourth in the Nature Index ranking, sixth patent applicant in France and eighth most innovative public research organization. The CNRS employs nearly 32,000 people in the service of research in more than 1100 laboratories for a budget of 3.4 billion euros.

This collection aims to highlight the cutting-edge studies of CNRS scientists in the fields of polymer science.
