Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue is in memory of Prof Joo Hwa Tay for his significant contribution to the advancement of aerobic granule technology!

This Special Issue on “Environmental Protection by Aerobic Granular Sludge Process” aims to discuss novel advances in the development and study of process control, optimization, and scaling up for the AGSP. Topics include, but are not limited to:

- Strategies for a fast and stable granulation process
- Strategies to maintain granule stability and identification of key parameters
- Strategies for stable nutrient removal and resource recovery
- Process optimization for the removal of challenging pollutants with the AGSP
- Process scaling up
- Process modeling

Processes (ISSN 2227-9717) provides an advanced forum for process/system-related research in chemistry, biology, material, energy, environment, food, pharmaceutical, manufacturing and allied engineering fields. The journal publishes regular research papers, communications, letters, short notes and reviews. Our aim is to encourage researchers to publish their experimental, theoretical and computational results in as much detail as necessary. There is no restriction on paper length or number of figures and tables.
