Message from the Guest Editors

We are currently in search of scholarly articles, subjects for discussion encompass a wide range of options without being restricted to any set, including:

- The framing of the ‘Muslim question’ as a ‘crisis’ within European discourse and its consequences for Muslim communities.
- The Muslim community’s reactions to the implementation of secular governance of Islam in Europe.
- The influence of Muslim organisations and leaders in shaping religious authority and identity.
- The examination of gender dynamics within the context of debates surrounding Islam and multiculturalism in Europe.
- The convergence of Muslim identity with factors such as race, ethnicity, and migration experiences.
- The convergence of Muslim identity with factors such as Islamophobia and securitisation.
- The contention surrounding the issues of halal practices, hijab attire, and mosque construction as markers of identity, space, and place.
- The dynamic interaction between transnational and local influences in the process of identity formation among European Muslims.

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community - disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
