

Special Issue

Anti-human Trafficking, Interfaith, and Spirituality

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue aims to provide a venue for deeper investigations and explorations by way of research studies and meaningful and effective practices that: a) address the growing global criminal enterprise of human trafficking, also known as “modern-day slavery”; b) foster co-existence among various Living faiths or faith traditions in light of cultural diversity, confronting frustrations, difficulties, challenges, and cynicism of contemporary pluralistic world; and c) honor and celebrate ways people exemplify spirituality and its interconnectedness with faith tradition or the absence thereof in a given socio-cultural setting, as an important aspect of human experience and an avenue of learning and meaning-making. Keywords:

- Anti-human trafficking
- Interfaith
- Interreligious
- Spirituality
- Human trafficking
- Dialogue

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

Fresh developments in the disciplines that consistently make significant contributions to our understanding of religious personality, authority, devotion, and community – disciplines ranging from psychology, sociology, and anthropology to history, art history, philosophy, literary criticism, and political science – fuel general, as well as scholarly, interest in the world's religions.

Religions is inviting innovative and comparative contributions. Please consider Religions as an exceptional, exciting enterprise ready to reward your trust, attention, and participation.
