Women's Special Issue Series: Remote Sensing 2023-2025

Message from the Guest Editors

Women are underrepresented within the field of remote sensing. While comprising only around 30% of researchers and practitioners in this field, women have made enormous contributions to the field of remote sensing and continue to participate in advances in it. As such, Remote Sensing would like to provide a platform to support women researchers, scientists, engineers and specialists across all relevant fields of study. This Special Issue of Remote Sensing aims to highlight the diversity of research being performed across the entire breadth of relevant areas and presents advances in theory, experiment, and methodology of remote sensing, placing particular emphasis on applications to compelling problems.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Remote Sensing is now a prominent international journal of repute in the world of remote sensing and spatial sciences, as a pioneer and pathfinder in open access format. It has highly accomplished global remote sensing scientists on the editorial board and a dedicated team of associate editors. The journal emphasizes quality and novelty and has a rigorous peer-review process. It is now one of the top remote sensing journals with a significant Impact Factor, and a goal to become the best journal in remote sensing in the coming years. I strongly recommend Remote Sensing for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
