Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

In the context of global climate change, with the increasing frequency and severity of extreme events—such as draughts and floods—which will likely provide growing uncertainty to water demand and jeopardise its availability, utilities in charge of the management of water systems face new operational challenges because of increasing resource scarcity, intensive energy requirements, growing populations—especially in urban areas—costly and ageing infrastructure, increasingly stringent regulations and rising attention towards the environmental impact of water use. The shift from a linear to a circular economy and the need for a transition to a low-carbon production system represents an opportunity to address these emerging challenges related to water, energy, and the inefficient use of resources. Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Sensors is a leading journal devoted to fast publication of the latest achievements of technological developments and scientific research in the huge area of physical, chemical and biochemical sensors, including remote sensing and sensor networks. Both experimental and theoretical papers are published, including all aspects of sensor design, technology, proof of concept and application. Sensors organizes Special Issues devoted to specific sensing areas and applications each year.

Author Benefits

Open Access : free for readers, with article processing charges \(APC\) paid by authors or their institutions.
