Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will focus on the ways to improve community health and address health inequities through a commitment to social justice. We welcome contributions that aim for a deeper understanding of the connections between specific determinants and health outcomes, especially when coupled with intervention approaches and efforts to reduce health inequities. Work that engages diverse perspectives and community partners is encouraged, and approaches using qualitative, mixed, and/or community engaged methods will be prioritized. Contributions that provide evidence for or suggest specific action and policy implications will be especially welcome, as will evaluations of community-engaged projects designed to address inequities. Special attention will be given to manuscripts that describe engaging marginalized communities to build equitable partnerships, define problems, set priorities, craft solutions, or showcase effective interventions.
