Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue of Social Sciences aims to bring together research from across the social sciences to address central challenges of ethics, justice and fairness in disaster risk reduction and climate change adaptation efforts. The analysis of how risks and responsibilities should be distributed informs wider discussions about how risk governance can be transformed according to normative ideals, how existing forms of governance compare, and how responsibility for financing should be shared to achieve equity, efficiency and additionality.
