Social Innovation: Local Solutions to Global Challenges

Message from the Guest Editor

Topics may include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Theoretical frameworks of social innovation: key theories and models that explain how local social innovations emerge, develop, and scale to address global challenges;
- Social innovation and entrepreneurship in specific sectors: case studies or theoretical insights on how social innovation and entrepreneurship can be applied in different sectors;
- Cross-sector collaboration: the role of collaboration between public, private, and civil society sectors in driving local social innovation, with an emphasis on how these partnerships can address global challenges;
- Policy frameworks for social innovation: the role of local, national, or international public policies in fostering or hindering social innovation etc.

We encourage submissions that bridge theory and practice, offering new insights into how local actors can generate solutions that not only address immediate community needs but also contribute to solving global challenges. GE email address rocco.fronzizi@uniroma2.it

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Social Sciences is an international, open access, peer-reviewed journal publishing the latest research across all disciplines of the social sciences, including anthropology, economics, law, linguistics, education, geography, history, political science, psychology, sociology, and other related areas. The journal is especially interested in interdisciplinary research, and aims to encourage creative, innovative, and critical reflections across social science disciplines. The journal welcomes conventional length articles, shorter Research Notes or articles, as well as Special Issue submissions, as long as they meet the journal's standards of quality and originality.
