Message from the Guest Editor

The journal Sustainability is launching a Special Issue devoted to energy poverty, inequality and sustainable development. Our aim for this Special Issue is to contribute to new theoretical and empirical developments. This Special Issue is also devoted to offer practical solutions to emerging problems related with energy poverty, inequality and sustainable development in the post-COVID world.

It would also be interesting to know what role policymakers should play in making sustainable development more effective, as well as their relations with the scientific world. Specific theoretical and methodological studies would lead to more effective policies for both poverty and inequality reduction and more sustainable development.

In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Energy poverty;
- Inequality;
- Sustainable development.

Any questions about this special issue, please ask Mark Huang <mark.huang@mdpi.com>.
