Sustainable enterprise is committed to implementing sustainability principles into its business decisions, operations and supply chains to offer green products or services. Sustainable enterprises involve resource optimization, energy conservation, waste prevention and pollution control, contributing to the transition towards a circular economy. Considering such importance of sustainable enterprises for the circular economy, we propose a special issue in the Journal of ‘Sustainability’ that highlights the knowledge, policy and practice regarding sustainable enterprises under a circular economy. The editorial team welcomes academics and practitioners to submit papers that contribute both knowledge and policy.

This special issue will accept submissions in all areas of sustainable enterprises, but special consideration will be given to the following topics:

Corporate governance of sustainable enterprises

Prospects and challenges for sustainable enterprises

Innovation in sustainable enterprises

Corporate social responsibility and sustainable enterprises

Entrepreneurship in sustainable enterprises

COVID-19 Pandemic and sustainable enterprises
