Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, titled “Sustainable Food Processing and Food Packaging Technologies”, focuses on reviews, regular research papers, communications, and short notes regarding all aspects of sustainable and relevant techniques used in food processing or food packaging. Sustainable food production embodies practices that maintain an ecological balance, support biodiversity, and mitigate environmental impacts. Papers on the following topics or similar ones are welcome to be submitted to this Issue:

- Sustainable minimal/non-thermal processing;
- Sustainable techniques used in food production/manufacturing;
- Food industrial waste valorization;
- Development of sustainable packaging materials;
- Life cycle analysis;
- Sustainability evaluation in food manufacturing and supply chain.
