Message from the Guest Editors

Papers could focus on social work practice as it relates to the following themes:

- Initiatives that seek to expand international cooperation and capacity-building of local communities to support access to safe and affordable drinking water for marginalised and impoverished communities, including water harvesting, desalination, water efficiency, wastewater treatment, recycling and reuse technologies
- Work that seeks to protect and restore water-related ecosystems, including mountains, forests, wetlands, rivers, aquifers and lakes, as well as social work practice that seeks to improve water quality by reducing pollution, eliminating dumping and minimizing release of hazardous chemicals and materials
- Programs that supports women and girls in vulnerable situations to access adequate and equitable sanitation

Work that promotes indigenous initiatives and world views as related to water and sanitation, clean energy, responsible and sustainable production and consumption, industry and innovation, life below water and life on earth.
