Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to address the following questions:

1. (RQ1) Do changes in green consumer behavior illustrate sustainable consumption and sustainable development?
2. (RQ2) Does the development of digital technologies foster sustainable consumption and sustainable development?
3. (RQ3) Has the digital economy reached a level of maturity in terms of sustainable consumer behavior in sustainable economies?

The Guest Editors of this Special Issue of Sustainability invite academics and business practitioners from around the world to contribute. The extent of sustainable consumption in the digital economy is a significant research subject. Contributions (papers) may involve literature reviews (bibliometrics), quantitative analyses, and models of sustainable consumption in the digital and sustainable economy.
