Message from the Guest Editors

We invite original research on “Sustainable Global Operations and Supply Chain Management” to expand the body of knowledge around the following broad themes:

- Conceptualization and empirical investigation of sustainable global supply chain management practices;
- Theoretical perspectives on the adoption and implementation of sustainable global operations;
- The role of advanced technologies such as AI/ML, IoT, and Blockchain in managing sustainable global supply chains networks;
- Data driven strategies to build sustainable global supply-chain networks;
- The approaches for aligning global operations with the UN Sustainable Development Goals;
- The dark side of inter-firm operations involving reverse logistics, corruption, opportunism, and channel conflict;
- The effect of sustainable operations for preparing organizations for COVID-19-like unprecedented global situations;
- Differences and learnings from varied supply-chains models across developed and transitioning economies;
- Developing efficient humanitarian supply-chain networks during disaster and relief management;
- Supply-chain flexibility and agility in managing pandemic challenges.
