Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

The main aim of this special issue will be to present novel interdisciplinary research on social responsibility, social awareness and the common good concept. Particular emphasis will be placed on social participation in the process of managing the surrounding space. The complex nature of human-environment interactions is a highly interesting topic of scientific inquiry. Rapid scientific progress generates new research methods and observations that can facilitate the discovery of novel relationships between the society and sustainable development, and can pave the way to a sustainable future. This special issue is open to research papers that discuss the latest trends in social responsibility based on the existing body of knowledge in the field of social and economic geography. The scope of this Special Issue covers but is not limited to the following topics:

- social order
- social responsibility
- common good
- social awareness
- social participation
- social capital
- local initiatives
- quality of life
- public-private partnership
