Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

To initiate the call for papers for our Special Issue entitled "Disruptive technologies and sustainable value creation", let us ask a question: "What are the allies and foes of sustainable value creation and disruptive technology? Given this context, how can we (re)define disruptive innovations to integrate some or all of the UN 17 Sustainable Developments Goals into their creation and implementation process? Is disruption a lever for sustainability or an impairment? Finally, what remains to be done to see this melding reach its full potential?

For this Special Issue, we invites submissions that reflect the spectrum of Sustainable Value Creation and Disruptive Technology stakeholders. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Economics of disruption and sustainability
- Multidisciplinary technologies
- Social impacts and barriers to the adoption of disruptive technologies
- Environmental impact and life-cycle evaluation of disruptive solutions
- Evolution of social policies to account for sustainability and disruption
