Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

With the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic in December 2019, humanity has faced an emergency that primarily concerned health and safety. This has had a very large negative impact on economic activity.

This Special Issue aims to provide innovative approaches in studying the intertwined relations between sustainability, accounting, and business strategies during the COVID-19 pandemic. It specifically seeks to provide empirical and conceptual evidence on the role played by accounting and sustainability reporting in the COVID-19 pandemic at a global level, to extend our knowledge of accounting in times of emergency as well as of how to improve the preparedness of organizations and society.

Topics of interest for this Special Issue include (but are not limited to):

- The policy response to deal with the COVID-19 crisis as well as the ESG issue;
- Sustainability reporting and disclosure after COVID-19;
- Sustainable business strategies after COVID-19;
- Corporate governance and sustainable practices after COVID-19;
- Internal control and sustainability after COVID-19;
- Digitalization and sustainability after COVID-19.
