Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue explores the landscape of AI technologies and AI-augmented practices in government and identifies the contemporary issues and challenges for the phased adaptations toward sustainable development. This Special Issue will contribute to search for ways to make changes and prevent future substantial failures for government and society. This issue welcomes analytical, descriptive, and explanatory approaches focused on policy initiatives, case studies, empirical evidence, and novel insights to promote AI-augmented sustainable governance in the local, national and international context.
