Message from the Guest Editors

Health has a key position in the global agenda through SDG-3 and is closely linked to other goals related to poverty, hunger, education, gender, economic inequalities, and water and sanitation, among others. In fact, the SDGs represent a unique opportunity to promote public health through an integrated approach to public policies across different sectors (the ‘Health in All’ approach defined by the WHO). Thus, the achievement of health goals will require policy coherence to reinforce synergies between certain SDGs and minimise trade-offs. The development of such policies and strategies needs robust empirical examination of the association, causation, and impact of changes in indicators of other SDGs on health and vice versa. In this call for papers, Sustainability welcomes accounts of studies exploring the following themes:

- Measurement and monitoring of SDG-3 targets
- Impact of COVID-19 on SDG-3 targets
- Role of other SDGs in global health convergence
- Public health spending and SDG-3
