This Special Issue aims to provide a space for reflection and debate about these processes. Aspects such as the nature and measurement of the phenomenon are especially interesting. What is overtourism? How is it measured? What are the perceptions of the phenomenon? However, the measures adopted to address overtourism are also interesting. What policies have been applied? How is overtourism integrated into the urban planning of historic centers?

Keywords

- tourism planning and overtourism
- overtourism, carrying capacity, and urban sustainability
- overtourism indicators in historic cities
