Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue is sustainable futures-focused, being especially geared towards exploring the sustainable management of the environment and its resources. We welcome holistic and integrated scientific research approaches that investigate and explore sustainable solutions to environmental issues (from exploring the issues/problems, to methods/approaches to addressing the issue/s, to solutions that are sustainable). We are especially seeking sustainable and innovative solutions that will hopefully hold the key to maintaining viable ecosystems and communities into the future, ensuring productive and viable food production whilst also valuing the environment, communities, societies, and future generations, in line with the UN Sustainable Development Goals.
