

Special Issue

Sustainable Resource Society

Message from the Guest Editors

Dear colleagues, We are writing to invite you to submit a research to this Special Issue titled “Sustainable Resource Society” to be published in Sustainability, an international, cross-disciplinary, peer-viewed, and open-access journal. The goal of this Special Issue is to showcase multi- and cross-disciplinary studies that address the systemic and strategic transition in the use of natural resources and raw materials from the social sciences perspectives. We invite studies that examine sustainability transitions from the perspectives of political, law, business, social, geographical, and historical studies. We invite papers that discuss topics that include but are not limited to the following: - Regulatory and governance systems for sustainable and responsible mining; - New circular economy networks and ecosystems in sustainable resources; - Global materials streams of the circular economy from political and legal frameworks; - International trade and digitalization of sustainable resource society.
